Winter Construction Tops Out 412 Williamson Street Hotel in Savannah, Georgia

(June 16, 2017) ATLANTA, GA – Winter Construction has topped out the new seven-story, 173-key hotel in the historic River Street area of Savannah, Georgia. With more than 175 attendees, the event celebrated the superstructure being completed and all of the hard work of the company, its partners, and subcontractors.

The 412 Williamson Street hotel property spans an entire city block, and the hotel includes two levels of parking and retail space, and a total of 162,000 square feet. The hotel's layout includes five levels of guest rooms, a fitness area, meeting space, a pool, a lobby bar, a restaurant on River Street, and a rooftop event space and bar. The architect is Gunn Meyerhoff Shay, and the interior designers are FODA and Parts & Labor.

Brent Reid, CEO of Winter Construction, stated that the topping out ceremony was a fun and exciting celebration of this unique hotel. "It's so rewarding to see the progress of this beautiful building, and the topping out signifies a major milestone towards the hotel's completion. It's also an honor to be part of the River Street landscape, adding to the richness of Savannah's Historic District."

No stranger to hospitality construction, Winter has decades of experience and expertise building and renovating hotels, with current projects including the Solis Hotel Two Porsche Drive next to the Porsche North America headquarters in Hapeville, Georgia, the AC/Moxy dual-branded hotel in Midtown Atlanta, and the Residence Inn next to the Spruill Arts Center in Dunwoody, Georgia.
